

NEGRO PORTER SHOT IN ARM

Started to Run When Cigar Dealer Fired; Traced by Trail of Blood.

When George Stoll, a negro, started to run after being detained by P. L. King, proprietor of the Empire cigar store, King pulled a pistol and fired one shot at the fleeing negro, the bullet striking him in the right arm below the elbow.

The shooting occurred on Texas street at the Mesa avenue intersection at 8:05 Monday morning. According to King, Stoll had been the porter of the cigar store and had been suspected of taking tobacco from the store for some time. The negro had a can of cigars and a quantity of chewing tobacco in his possession when he was shot. A warrant was filed in the county court charging Stoll with robbery. King was not arrested. After being shot the negro ran down Texas street to the south, and ran down an alley by the Ryan drug store where he was caught. He left a trail of blood as he ran which was easily followed by King and other pursuers.

Las Cruces Girl and Newspaper Man Married at Cathedral.

Miss Adela Lucero and Will Lapoint of Las Cruces, N. M., were married Monday morning at the 7:30 o'clock mass of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Rev. Edward Barry performed the ceremony.

The bridal party entered the church to the music of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Dixie Passett. The music of the mass was sung by the St. Cecilia choir, with Miss Dixie Passett at the organ.

The bride entered with her father, Jose H. Lucero, leading the bridal party. Following them were the groom and Mrs. Lawrence Lapoint, Mrs. J. R. Lucero and Lawrence Lapoint, the brother of the groom; Miss Pauline Garcia, of Las Cruces, and Prof. Cruz Alvarez, of La Union, N. M.

The bridal party left the church to the music of the wedding march by Mendelssohn.

Bride Beautiful.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white georgette crepe de chine, made with a long court train. Her tulle veil was held in place by a wreath of lilies of the valley and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations. Mrs. Lawrence Lapoint, her matron of honor, was dressed in gray georgette crepe, over taffeta, with a hat to match. Miss Pauline Garcia wore old rose georgette crepe over taffeta, and a pink hat. Both carried pink carnations.

SOCIALISM'S AGAINST

Peter Collins Declares Socialists Speak Two Languages; K. C. Lecture.

"Socialism, while appealing to the laboring man for its following, is opposed to labor unions," declared Peter Collins, former International Electrical Workers' union leader and now of the Knights of Columbus, to an audience that filled the Texas Grand theater Sunday night.

"And why is socialism opposed to labor unions?" he continued. "Because the International Electrical Workers' union stands for peace and harmony, while socialism is against those things. Union labor is willing to sit down with capital and work out agreements regarding working conditions and standards on the ground that labor and capital are essential to each other while socialism condemns in bitter terms the capitalist class and seeks to correct them by remedies; socialism wants you to tear down the building because there is a leak in a pipe."

Speaks Two Languages.

The speaker declared that socialism has two languages; the academic, the main doctrine of which is the materialistic conception of history, and the other that comes from the soap box orator. The language of the one is not understandable to the other, he declared. He showed that none of the great leaders of the socialist propaganda have sprung from the ranks of labor and that none of them were in sympathy with labor's hopes and aspirations.

"The theory of socialism denies the existence of God," he declared, "while the workman as a class is deeply spiritual." He showed that Christ and his apostles were working men and dignified laborers. Socialism, he said, says that religion has been abolished by science, yet all great scientists were men of deep religious convictions and received their inspiration from religion.

Against 10 Commandments.

"Socialism stands against the 10 commandments," declared the speaker. "Now I am not here to apologize for the 10 commandments. They have stood the test of time, guiding men throughout the ages and will continue to guide them through the ages to come. The lack of the 10 commandments is, what is the matter with the world today?"

Lack of harmony, said Mr. Collins, is what is wrong with the world today. Harmony, he said, is one of the essential laws of God. The lack of harmony among men, he said, is the cause of all misery. Men are enemies in Europe today because there is lack of harmony among men. He spoke of the divorce evil as a lack of harmony in the family circle and of lack of harmony among men and women because of failure to recognize the right of every man to worship as he chooses.

Lack of Harmony.

"There are many evils that exist as a result of lack of harmony between capital and labor," said the speaker. "One is the evil of the underpaid laboring man. The welfare of the working class affects every branch of society. Around the evil of the underpaid workman is gathered 25 percent of all the evils of drunkenness, ignorance and anarchy. The remedy is a living wage, a wage sufficient to provide the necessities of life, to properly feed and clothe the family and to provide for the gaining of a home."

Child Labor.

"Another evil is that of child labor. There are today 2,000,000 children under 16 years of age working for wages. Still another evil is the evil of unemployment. From eight to 15 percent of our laboring class are out of employment during part of a year. There is something wrong with the world when there is no employment for all men who want to work."

Employment Bureau.

"Something is being done along the line of finding employment for the unemployed. The government has established an employment bureau in connection with 3,000 of the postoffices. Another great evil is the great loss of life and injuries sustained in industrial plants. The sacrifice of a single life brings about a tragedy."

All the evils, the speaker declared, were merely sores on the body, requiring but the proper remedies. The various interests, working in harmony, can bring about improvements in social conditions. "Capital," he stated, "is inherently right. There are some grafters, but to condemn capital because there are grafters is not right. Capital is not robbery. It is merely the accumulation of savings."

Called "Judas."

At the close of his lecture he gave his audience an opportunity to ask questions. A number took issue with him on questions of socialism and its relation to labor. One person, with a slightly foreign accent, accused him of being "a Judas betraying labor."

"Are you a laboring man?" asked the speaker.

"I am."

"Do you carry a card?"

"Yes, sir."

"Let me see it."

After fumbling in his pockets for a few moments the man announced that he had let it to other people. "Herald Peter Collins's union card," said the speaker, displaying a card. "I am a member of the electrical workers in good standing and will always have a card with me."

War Prisoners, Lodged in Italian Palaces, Happiest of All Held by an Enemy

Rome, Italy, March 6.—"The happiest war prisoners in Europe are those 50,000 of Austria now held by the Italians," according to the Rev. Walter L. Lewis, pastor of St. Paul's American church, who has been specially delegated by the Young Men's Christian association to look after the prisoners, came in Italy.

After returning from a trip among the prisoners he Lewis said to a correspondent of the Associated Press: "The prisoners are lodged in some of the most magnificent castles and palaces of Italy. The homes of former kings and princes. They are well fed, they are not ill-treated or browbeaten, and they not only are not made to work but they are permitted to be happy. If anybody can be said to be happy at this time, away from home and country and family and loved ones, they have. Two complaints to make—one is that Europe is at war."

"I am ashamed of everybody in Europe," said one prisoner to me, and he voiced the sentiments of all. Of course this feeling has a certain mental depression as an accompaniment. Their second complaint is that they are not allowed to work and earn a few cents a day, as prisoners are permitted to do in France, Germany and elsewhere. That they are not at work is due to the objections made by the labor leaders of Italy who felt that all war work should go to Italians in need of work to keep themselves and their families going."

"But these prisoners are improving their time for all that. Nearly all of them are learning English. I have had difficulty in getting enough English books for them."

Baby Week A Big Success

SATURDAY the Opening Day of National Baby Week, turned "The Popular" into a Babbling Childland. 'Twas a great success, thank you!

All day Saturday we had the pleasure of receiving an uninterrupted stream of babies and their mothers. And while the mothers went from counter to counter picking up the specially provided and specially priced new infants' wearables, the youngsters, as our guests, were having a good time under the watchful eyes of our extra sales-ladies.

Satisfaction was generally expressed by mothers with the splendid selections and exceptionally low prices offered. Many bought just an item or two; others enough to supply the baby for all Spring and Summer. Not a few will come again. To these, and to those who have not yet been here, we promise the same selections and values throughout the week as were offered Monday.

should be demanded in a table beverage.

Coffee—for example—may possess a pleasing flavour for some, but it contains a most harmful element—caffeine, a subtle, cumulative drug, the continued use of which frequently leads to various diseases of the kidneys, liver and other vital organs, and sometimes to premature old age. Among the symptoms of caffeine poisoning are headache, nervousness, biliousness, sleeplessness, heart-flutter, "brain-fag," and so on.

Any coffee drinker who is ailing had better quit the coffee—tea also—and use
